EW persons realize the magnitude of the work of publishing a directory. Every place of business and residence must be visited and the names taken. Then the names are arranged alphabetically and compiled, that is duplicates thrown out, corrections made, incomplete information amended, etc. The entire canvass is checked with the last book to ascertain what names have not come in. These names are copied from the old book and sent out for investigation, together with memoranda of all vacant houses reported in the canvass. Upon return of these "send outs" the changes and new information are embodied in the original canvass and the whole is prepared for the printer, making about 6,000 pages of manuscript copy for Oakland City and 10,000 pages for the whole county.

A causal comparison of this directory with an ordinary book will give an idea of the difficulties to be overcome by the printer.

The present volume contains 38,164 names in the Oakland department, 7,827 in Alameda and 7,471 in Berkeley. Eastern directory publishers multiply the number of names by 3 to obtain the entire population, they taking but 33 per cent, but for the Oakland Directory we have been much more thorough, giving names of unmarried ladies, young people above the age of 16, students, etc., who are left out of Eastern books, so that we get about 45 per cent. This would make the population of Oakland 84,808, Alameda 17,393, Berkeley 16,600.

The county, outside of the three cities, has a population of about 25,000 making the total population 143,801.

We desire to acknowledge many courtesies and much valuable information and assistance received from county and city officials and from business men generally.

ALAMEDA COUNTY

Its Resources and Attractions.

Alameda County has an area of 512,000 acres or nearly 800 square miles. It stretches for 40 miles along the famous bay of San Francisco and extends eastward 50 miles to the line of San Joaquin. It contains within its boundaries all varieties of soil and climate and unmeasured resources in every line of material development.

The County is traversed by two ranges of mountains or rather hills—the Contra Costa and Mt. Diablo—which converge at the south. These ranges form an impassable barrier to the ocean winds from the west and the icy breezes from the Sierras on the east, making the great Livermore Valley the natural home of the vine and the fruit tree. All the tropical fruits, vegetables and flowers flourish in luxuriance as well as those of the temperate zones.

Nature made it a Garden of Eden in possibilities and the intelligent efforts of a highly cultivated and progressive population have developed those possibilities until nowhere in the world can there be found a more prosperous or contented people than here.

HISTORICAL.

The first settlement by white men in the County was at Mission, San Jose, in 1797 (June 18th).

The party that founded the Mission came overland from Monterey and seems to have been made up of men of unusual judgment and energy. At least this, the eleventh settlement founded by the Mission Fathers, soon outstripped all the others in influence and prosperity, its herds of cattle and sheep grazing unchecked from the warm springs of the south to San Pablo and Martinez. The cultivation of the soil was here carried on in a very primitive style, but the exceeding fertility of the soil and perennial returns of grain and vegetables as the reward of moderate labor made poverty or hardship unknown.

But the war came in 1846 and then annexation accompanied by the hustling Yankee. He came to Alameda County in large numbers. He always knows a good thing when he sees it. To get to the gold mines of the interior, many crossed Alameda County, and of the many, not a few then or later came to stay and make here their homes surrounded by fruits and vines and embowered in flowers more luxurious and beautiful than grow in the Vale of Cashmere.

Alameda County was carved from Santa Clara and Contra Costa Counties by an act of the State Legislature, passed in 1853, approved March 28th. The act was introduced by Henry C. Smith, who lived at Alvarado, then called New Haven, and under the act New Haven was designated as the County Seat.

The duties now performed by the Board of Supervisors were delegated to a "Court of Sessions" composed of the County Judge and two Justices of the Peace. The first meeting of this body was held at Alvarado, June 6th, 1853. Its members were Addison M. Crane, County Judge, and I. S. Long and David M. Lacy, Justices of the Peace. Their first business was the division of the County into Oakland, Contra Costa, Clinton, Eden, Washington and Murray Townships. This division was changed December 12, 1853, and Contra Costa Township was incorporated into Oakland Township.

On January 5th, 1873, a readjustment was made by the Board of Supervisors and the Townships were established as now existing, viz., Alameda, Brooklyn, Eden, Murray, Oakland and Washington.

Under the act of March 9th, 1855, approved March 20, 1855, the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County was created. The first Board consisted of Henry C. Smith of Washington, J. W. Dougherty, Murray; S. D. Taylor, Eden; J. L. Sanford, Clinton; Jas. Millington, Alameda. Mr. Dougherty was selected chairman.

At the time of the first election held in California, November 13, 1849, there was only one election precinct in what is now Alameda County, viz., San Antonio (now East Oakland. Now there are 128.

At first there were six school districts, corresponding with the Townships. Now 55.

In those early days there were some peculiarities about elections from which the modern politician might derive valuable hints.

On March 26, 1853, an election was held for member of the Assembly. The candidates were Horace W. Carpentier, Robert S. Farrelly and B. R. Holliday. Mr. Carpentier received, or at least claimed 519 votes, Mr. Farrelly 254 and Mr. Holliday 192—in all 965. In a subsequent contest it was ascertained that only 377 votes were cast, and further that when the census was taken ten weeks before the election there were only 130 voters in the district. Mr. Carpentier was declared elected. In May, 1853, the first election of County officers took place. It was known as the "Steeple Chase," there being on an average six candidates for each office.

It may be interesting to note that on August 4, 1851, a license was granted by the Court of Sessions of Contra Costa County for the first ferry between Oakland and San Francisco. The charges for passage were as follows:

For one person.....	$1 00
For one horse.....	3 00
For one wagon.....	3 00
For one two-horse wagon.....	5 00
Neat cattle per head.....	3 00
Sheep per head.....	1 00
Hogs per head.....	1 00
Freight 50c per 100 lbs

The first bill audited at this first session of the Court of Sessions contained the following items:

D. S. Lord, for blank books and stationery ..	$425 00
A. M. Church, services obtaining books, etc ..	49 00
Homer & Stevens, lumber for desk ..	26 00
Perham & Weaver, work on desk..	81 00

On December 30th, 1854, an election was held to select a new County seat, resulting in a removal to San Leandro. In 1855 it was returned to Alvarado and in 1856 again removed to San Leandro, where it remained until 1874, when it was removed to Oakland after a long and hard fight in the Legislature, the courts and popular election.

CLIMATE.

The climate of California is famed throughout the world. Nothing new can or need be said about it. No part of the State can claim a more delightful climate than Alameda County. This is easily accounted for. The winds from the Pacific, only twelve miles distant, during the summer months blow across the bay, and reduced to pleasant breezes by coming in contact with the hills back of Oakland, keep the air cool and invigorating, at the same time neutralizing and carrying away all noxious or disagreeable vapors, smoke, etc., which are inseparable of the County the same soil is found, having been washed from the protecting hills by the rains of the centuries. In it everything grows luxuriantly and continuously, the winters never being cold enough to stop the blooming of roses or the maturing of fruit or vegetables.

PRODUCTS.

The chief agricultural and horticultural products of the County are fruits of all kinds, wheat, barley, hay, vegetables and sugar beets. As high as ninety-six bushels of wheat to the acre has been harvested on some of the ranches in able from a large city. These winds are caused by the heating and consequent rising of the air in the interior of the State and the rushing in of the cool air from the ocean to take its place. Average winter temperature 52 degrees; average summer temperature 67 degrees.

SOIL.

The soil along the forty miles of bay shore, extending back from two to six miles, is a deep sediment, having at some time been the bottom of an inland lake. In the magnificent valleys in the inter-

Livermore valley; the average being sixty bushels. The same amount of barley is harvested, the quality of both being unsurpassed anywhere. The acreage of grain is given elsewhere.

The profits of fruit growing, however, are so much greater than the raising of grain that large tracts of land in all parts of the county are being planted to trees and vines.

According to the report of the County Assessor there are 8,200 acres of grapes in the County, 55,500 apple trees, 110,500 cherry, 3,500 fig, 5,300 olive, 45,300 peach, 114,900 pear, 287,000 prune, 1,250 lemon, 2,175 orange, 103,000 almond, 2,200 walnut.

In addition to these there are hundreds of acres of strawberries, currants, blackberries, etc.

The largest nursery in the State is that of the California Nursery Co. at Niles.

More than half the flowers that supply the San Francisco market come from Alameda County. The finest collection of orchids on the coast, worth $50,000, belongs to Mr. J. C. Siegfried of Alameda.

Bay Farm Island, which is a part of the City of Alameda, contains about 325 acres of land devoted chiefly to the production of asparagus. The land rents for $50 per acre per annum.

One reason for the remarkable success of fruit and vegetable growers is found in the fact that very few injurious insects are found in the County. A very strict quarantine was established early in the history of fruit growing and has been maintained ever since, with the result that Alameda county has no phylloxera, no red or white scale and very few other pests.

PRICES OF LAND AND PROFITS.

Land in Alameda County is not cheap either in price or quality. To a man who has sold a farm in the Mississippi valley, which he has improved and brought to a high state of cultivation, for $50 or perhaps $75 an acre, $150 an acre for unimproved land seems a high price, but when the income is taken into account, the discrepancy disappears. From his Illinois or Iowa land he will do well if he realizes $10 an acre net, which we will say is 15 per cent on his investment. An Alameda County orchard when in full bearing has cost him $75 an acre for the land and say $100 an acre for planting and cultivation, or, if he prefers, he can save the time required for development by buying his orchard at about $300 an acre. The net income from this land will not be less than $75 per acre or 25 to 40 per cent on his investment. Experienced fruit growers say that taking the average of the years they can make a net profit of $100 a year per acre. These may seem large figures, but for the past five years the average income from orchards in this County has been more than $75 per acre. In many instances profits from $400 to $600 an acre have been realized in single years. Last year orchardists sold their cherries at 20 cents per pound, realizing from $500 to $1,500 an acre, depending upon the age of the trees. Unimproved fruit lands may be had at $40 to $150 per acre, depending chiefly upon the location. Orchards in full bearing, where owners are for some reason anxious to sell, go as low as $250 an acre, but more often are held at $350 to $600, including fair improvements.

TAXES.

Large sums of money are used annually in public improvements and in maintaining those already made. The public school fund amounts to about $500,000 annually; $100,000 are expended on road improvement and maintenance, all macadamized roads being sprinkled every day to keep them in perfect condition.

The County has no debt and only needs to raise sufficient funds by taxation to pay current expenses.

The following figures give the valuation and rates of taxation for ten years past:

SALT.

An important industry of the county is the manufacture of salt. The works extend along the shore of the bay for 15 miles or more, employ hundreds of men and produce about 30,000 tons of salt annually. Something over a million dollars of capital is invested in the industry.

SUGAR.

The manufacture of beet sugar at Alvarado is another industry giving a market for $250,000 worth of beets annually and employing a large number of men.

COAL.

An important and growing interest of the county is the mining of coal at Tesla, 12 miles east of Livermore. The plant is one of the most complete in the country. The town of Tesla belongs to the company. It has 5 large dormitories or lodging houses, 150 cottages for families, a large hotel, warehouse, hospital, general merchandise store, fruit store, dairy, butcher shop, cold storage plant, a public school and complete artesian water works and sewer system, making the town a model from a hygienic standpoint.

About 300 men are constantly employed and the working thus far has developed 20,000,000 tons of coal of good quality.

QUARRIES.

Large quarries of excellent macadamizing materials are found in the county. The rock is shipped to all parts of the State for use in improvement of roads.

STREETS AND ROADS.

The roads in Alameda County, outside of the cities, compare favorably with the best in other parts of the country. The main roads are macadamized or graveled and are kept in a good state of repair. There are 460 miles of roads in the county, 10 miles macadamized, 200 miles graveled and 250 miles graded. Of these 70 miles are watered daily in summer, thus preserving them in good condition and contributing greatly to the comfort of travelers.

Over $100,000 is expended annually on the improvement and maintenance of the county roads.

In the city of Oakland a well-conceived plan of street improvement has been carried on with most gratifying results. There are 109.70 miles of macadamized, 4.74 miles bituminized streets, and 55.10 miles of unimproved streets, and in Oakland annex 24.34 miles partly macadamized and 40.26 miles unimproved streets. Total, 234.84 miles. In years gone by the method of re-macadamizing exceeded in cost the amount necessary to construct new macadam. After considerable agitation a new method has been adopted which reduces the cost of re-macadamizing from $1.25 to 90c to 25c per foot front, and as an inducement to property owners to have this done the city has agreed to furnish the steam roller for the purpose entirely free of charge.

The City of Alameda contains about fifty miles of macadamized streets.

In Berkeley, Shattuck avenue, University avenue and other of the principal streets are macadamized.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The public schools of Alameda County take the foremost rank in the State, and as California is among the first four or five States of the Union in educational facilities, it may be said that our public school system is seen here in its highest state of development.

In the County there are 55 school districts and 94 school houses, 5 brick and 89 wood. There are 483 teachers, excluding high schools, 124 being graduates of normal school, 64 of University of California and 10 of other universities.

The average monthly salaries paid are City Superintendent, $188.88; principals, primary and grammar men, $118.21, women $122.08; principals High School, $179.37, teachers High School, men, $121.14; women $119.28; grammar schools, men, $100; women, $79.95; primary schools, men, $67.50; women, $73.89; kindergarten women, $64.50; teachers in County, men, $127.13; women, $76.87.

The expenditure for school purposes at last report was for teachers' salaries, $395,154.25; for supplies, repairs and contingent expenses, $108,392.72; for sites, buildings and furniture, $33,118.93; library books and apparatus, $5,789.60; total, $537,455.50. The value of school property, primary and grammar, is $1,635,362; high school, $587,800. There are 1,464 high school pupils, 558 boys and 906 girls. The expenditure for the year was $82,236.72.

LIBRARIES.

Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley have excellent free public libraries and reading rooms. There is also a library in each school district, the total number of books in County District libraries being 36,895.

Number of books in Oakland free library is 28,465. Seven reading rooms are maintained in various parts of the city. The rapid growth of the library made the present building inadequate for its accommodation, and in August, 1899, this fact coming to the knowledge of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire manufacturer, through a letter from Mr. H. A. Chittenden of Oakland, he wrote the following letter:

"SKIBO CASTLE,
Arday, N. B.

"Henry A. Chittenden, Esq.,

"Oakland Tribune, Oakland, Cal.

"My Dear Mr. Chittenden: Many thanks for your enclosures, which I read with interest. If Oakland would do as other cities have done, i. e., provide a site and agree to maintain the library; at a cost of say $4,000, it would give me pleasure to give the necessary $50,000 to build it; but I must be sure that the community is obliged to maintain it as above. No use building libraries unless we are sure of their future.

"With best wishes, always very truly yours,

"ANDREW CARNEGIE."

Since the receipt of above, the City Council has guaranteed the support required, and through the efforts of the ladies of the Ebell Society, the amount ($20,000) necessary for the purchase of the site on the southwest corner of Grove and Fourteenth streets has been raised by subscription.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB, AND THE BLIND.

The California Institution for the education of the deaf and dumb and the blind is located at Berkeley, and is one of the best and most complete institutions of the kind in the country. It is liberally supported by the State, which support is well merited by the results of the thorough work done.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

The University of California is located at Berkeley, having its professional departments in San Francisco and its astronomical department (The Lick Observatory) at Mt. Hamilton in Santa Clara County. In 1853, Congress gave the State 82 sections of land for the establishment of a seminary of learning. In 1862 a special gift of 150,000 acres was made by Congress for the establishment of schools of agriculture and the mechanic arts. In 1867, trustees appointed to inaugurate these schools determined that they should be located in Alameda County. Thereupon the College of California, a semi-denominational institution, which had received a charter in 1853 and had established a school at Oakland, offered to give all its property to the new university, including 160 acres of land north of Oakland. The offer was accepted and the tract of 160 acres was determined upon as the site of the future University. None better could have been selected. It lies on the slopes of the foot hills, at an elevation of about 300 feet, and commands a view said by travelers to be equal to any to be found in the world. The great bay of San Francisco is spread before the beholder with the golden gate and the blue Pacific in the distance. Upon the left appear the spires and domes of San Francisco. In front the majesty of Mt. Tamalpais, with villages nestling along the coast at its base. White sails and river steamers pass in the still distance and the trains of the scenic railway, insects in the distance, climb the mountain side with many a silent winding curve until they reach the summit above the clouds.

If grandeur and beauty in nature furnishes inspiration to the student, the University of California should make great men.

The "bill to organize the University of California" was introduced by its author, Hon. John W. Dwinelle, on March 5th, 1868. It became a law March 23, 1868. The Board of Regents, composed of 22 members, was organized June 9th, 1868. New buildings were commenced at Berkeley, but the buildings of the College of California were used until 1873, when every-thing connected with the University was removed to Berkeley. Dr. Henry Durant, the former President of the California College was first President of the University, though he only retained the position a short time, being succeeded, July 20, 1872, by D. C. Gilman, who resigned in 1875 to accept the Presidency of Johns Hopkins University, and was succeeded by Dr. John Le Conte, who had been acting President during the formative period of the University and who was mainly instrumental in the organization of the various departments and establishment of their courses of study.

At first the University had five colleges, viz., those of agriculture, of mechanic arts, of civil engineering, of mining, and of letters.

At present the University comprises the following legally constituted colleges and departments:

College of Letters.
College of Social Sciences.
College of Natural Sciences.
College of Commerce.
College of Agriculture.
College of Mechanics.
College of Mining.

According to the University Bulletin issued in May, 1899, there were at that time 2,438 students in all departments. Young women are admitted to the University on equal terms with young men.

It is only 32 years since the passage of the Act establishing a University; only 27 since the buildings at Berkeley were occupied, but the above summary shows that magnificent work has been done in that time; that the University has taken rank among the great institutions of learning of the world

By the generosity of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, one of its Regents, the University was recently able to invite the architects of the world to enter a competition, which has resulted in a scheme of construction worthy of the magnificent site and worthy of the great State of California. Many years and many mil-ions of dollars will be required for carrying out the plans adopted, but when finished, the University of California will have the most complete and most magnificent dwelling place ever conceived by the mind of man.

CONCLUSION.

The scope of this work will not allow a more thorough outline of the resources and attractions of Alameda County. We have ample material for a volume and regret that this sketch, which is necessarily confined chiefly to statistics, could not be made more fully to represent the natural, industrial and educational advantages of the County.
